

FIVE Things to Do When Teaching Remotely

Adapt Plans to Unique Needs

Understand your school's guidance, and develop a plan and schedule that incorporates student engagement, teacher-led instruction, and online lessons.

Partner with and Support Families

Help families understand instructional programs and how they will help their students. Share how families can support from home during remote learning.

Engage All Students

Find ways to celebrate all students, foster ownership of the learning, and acknowledge their successes—large and small.

Provide Teacher-Led Instruction Remotely

Plan instruction for remote learning that still includes the best practices you incorporate in your in-person lessons and effectively leverage your learning management system.

Use Data to Help Make Decisions

Use all available student data to gauge student progress and inform your teaching.
